Information is required at every level of accounting theory. Information serves as a purpose for decision making. It serves as a purpose of resource by men, Material, Machinery and Money. In Information, cost must be less than the benefits.

Information acts as a resource for decision making and also for the future.

There are two types of Information:

- i) Quantitative Information.
- ii) Non-Quantitative Information.

Information

~~Adv~~ Information can also be provided in the form of charts, graphs or symbols to represent the information graphically.

Advantages:

- i) Helps in decision making.
- ii) Information can be quantitative or qualitative.

Disadvantage:

- i) Information is not reliable.
- ii) Excessive information may lead to confusion.

B. 3. There are two types of expenditure -
Capital Expenditure and Revenue Expenditure.

Capital Expenditure -

Capital Expenditure is that expenditure in which the services and benefits are not consumed in the same financial year - that is the benefits and services are spread over a number of years.

Capital expenditure is an outflow of capital used to maintain, repair or acquire the asset so that it can be used over a number of years.

Examples: Purchase of machinery, building etc.

Features:

- ① It is used to acquire an asset.
- ② It is non-recurring.
- ③ The asset is to be used and not sold.
- ④ It increases the productivity.
- ⑤ It is a long term effect.

Revenue Expenditure -

Revenue Expenditure is not used to acquire any asset in the business.

Revenue expenditure is an expenditure in which the services and benefits are fully consumed in the same financial year. They are usually the expenses involved in maintaining the asset. They can be of two types direct output expenditure or indirect productive expenditure.

Revenue expenditure helps in maintaining the asset and for productivity.

Examples: Salary and wages, Rent, Advertisement etc.

a) Value of closing inventory according to periodic inventory system -

Total Purchases (5000 + 4000 + 3000 + 2000)	14,000
Less: Total Issues (2500 + 3000 + 3000 + 500 + 2000 + 500 + 1500)	13,000
Closing Stock	1,000

$$\therefore \text{Closing Stock Value} = 1000 \times 10 = \underline{\underline{10,000}}$$

15 b) The closing stock value under LIFO method is devalued, because the purchase amount is more than the sales amount.

c) No, it is not advisable to continue LIFO method to satisfy the shareholders because in the market the value of the shares are decreasing and it may lead to lesser rate of dividend.

1 Compute various stock levels from the following.

a) Monthly consumption 26,000 kgs to 40,000 kgs

b) R.O.Q 60,000 kgs

c) Lead time 2 to 4 weeks

1) ROL

ROL = Maximum consumption  $\times$  Max. delivery time

$$= 40,000 \times 4/4$$

$$= 40,000 \text{ units}$$

2) Minimum Stock

Min stock = ROL - (Avg. consumption  $\times$  Avg. Delivery time)

$$= 40,000 - \left( \frac{26,000 + 40,000}{2} \times \frac{2 + 4}{2} \right)$$

$$= 40,000 - (33,000 \times 3/4)$$

$$= 40,000 - 24,750$$

$$= 15,250$$

3) Maximum stock

Maximum stock = ROL + ROQ - (Min cons.  $\times$  min. D.T)

$$= 40,000 + 60,000 - (20,000 \times 2/4)$$

$$= 1,00,000 - 10,000$$

$$= 90,000 \text{ units}$$

4) Average Stock

$$\text{Average stock} = \frac{\text{Minimum stock} + \text{Maximum stock}}{2}$$

$$= \frac{15,250 + 87,000}{2}$$

$$= 51,125 \text{ Units}$$

5. Calculate E.O.Q from the following.

Annual consumption                      600 units

Carrying cost                              20% of price

Ordering price                            Rs. 12 per order

Price per unit                              Rs. 20

$$E.O.Q = \sqrt{\frac{2AO}{C}}$$

$$= \sqrt{\frac{2 \times 600 \times 12}{4}}$$

$$= 60 \text{ Units}$$

$$C = 20 \times 20\%$$

$$= 4$$

Introduction

In February 2016, Carl Pei, co-founder of the Shenzhen-based technology start-up, OnePlus, announced that the company's new flagship smartphone OnePlus 3 would be launched by the end of the second quarter (June) of 2016. He said the company's fourth smartphone model with its new design would captivate young tech enthusiasts, much like its predecessors. Since its debut in 2013, OnePlus had grabbed the headlines for delivering smartphones with flagship specifications at significantly lower prices than that of its rivals. The co-founders of OnePlus Peter Lau (Lau) and Pei emphasized the "Never Settle" motto of OnePlus, which aimed at providing the best possible technology to users globally by creating elegantly designed devices with premium build quality and high performance hardware. The business model of OnePlus was built around razor-thin margins. The company employed an unconventional invite-only system that limited buyers to those who had received an invite from the company directly or from someone who had already purchased the device.

History

OnePlus was founded on 16 December 2013 by former Oppo vice-president Pete Lau and Carl Pei. According to the Chinese government's documentation, the only institutional stockholder in OnePlus is Oppo, Although Lau initially denied that OnePlus was a wholly owned subsidiary of Oppo, upon release of the regulatory filings they admitted that they are owned by Oppo and are "in talks with other investors" (although nothing has been announced to date). The company's main goal was to design a smartphone that would balance high-end quality with a lower price than other phones in its class, believing that users would "Never Settle" for the lower-quality devices produced by other companies. Lau explained that "we will never be different just for the sake of being different. Everything done has to improve the actual user experience in day-to-day use." He also showed aspirations of being the "Muji of the tech industry", emphasizing its focus on high-quality products with simplistic, user-friendly designs.

Continuing Lau's association with the platform from the Oppo N1, OnePlus entered into an exclusive licensing agreement with Cyanogen Inc. to base its products' Android distribution upon a variant of the popular custom ROM Cyanogen Mod and use its trademarks outside of China. The company unveiled its first device, the OnePlus One, on 23 April 2014. In December 2014, alongside the release of the OnePlus One in India exclusively through Amazon, OnePlus also announced plans to establish a presence in the country, with plans to open 25 official walk-in service centers across India. OnePlus made its products available in Southeast Asia for the first time, partnering with Lazada Indonesia on 23 January 2015 and is expected to expand during this year throughout the region. In April 2014, OnePlus hired Han Han as the product ambassador in mainland China. On 9 March 2014 the company decided to expand its operations to all European countries except Switzerland (although OnePlus devices can be purchased in Switzerland via local online retailers), serving now 43 countries and regions all over the world. As of March 2016, OnePlus serves for the following countries and regions: Austria, Belgium, Bulgaria, Canada, Mainland China, Croatia, Cyprus, Czech Republic, Denmark, Egypt, Estonia, Finland, France, Germany, Greece, Hong Kong, Hungary, India, Ireland, Israel, Italy, Latvia, Lithuania, Luxembourg, Malta, Malaysia, Netherlands, Poland, Portugal, Romania, Saudi

Importance of branding

Today when I see around me, I can find 3 out of 4 One Plus users. What made them so phenomenal over the years in the Indian and World Market? Let's try to discover the reasons for the unexpected rise of a new superstar. The Mobile markets today literally have dozens of smartphone brands, even more so in China, where the mobile market thrives on cheap components and knock off designs. That is why very few smartphone makers from that region ever gain international renown. At such times never heard Chinese startup named One Plus dared to challenge the status quo of the existing big names such as Oppo and Vivo. Some wonder if its execs were smoking something. It turned out it wasn't all hot air after all.

So let's try to find out what made this Shenzhen based smartphone brand that was first introduced in December 2014 in India, to become one of the most popular handset brands across the country. It's really interesting to know that One Plus is the most successful brand that has become big without spending a penny on traditional marketing initiatives. One Plus ventured with the 20th Century marketing strategy. For a very young and small company, it's rather surprised at how it catapulted to fame. But being young and small meant it was free to be agile. It could change strategies more easily than multi-national corporations. They could experiment with the new trends in marketing. They embraced and exploited the speed and ferocity of social media. In an industry which houses 150-odd handset players, new brands are knocking down its doors almost every other day. Amid such competition, the brand has already sold a million devices in the country and claims that 85% of its users have switched from Apple, Samsung and Nexus phones.

A Digital Brand

The most important aspect of the One Plus launching in India was to offer consumers a top end phone with great specs, design, quality and experience at an affordable price, which other brands were offering at an exorbitant price. They launched themselves as a Digital Brand in India. They refrain from the traditional marketing and started a new era of Digital Marketing. The brand then chose the digital platform and started investing in building a community. Within digital, One Plus has a sharp focus on social media. The brand is extremely active on social media and has created a strong Face book community of over a million users and a 1.5 lakh strong community on Twitter.

Leveraging Influencers

The One Plus founders created a community for discussion, prior to their launch. Over a period of time, the community grew big and when the brand entered India, they leveraged it to create its footprint in the country. The early adopters of the brand started to like it and they became the brand ambassadors who invited other people for a great product that led to word-of-mouth awareness.

At present, the One Plus community is really strong, with over 800,000 members in the community globally and the brand regularly organizes offline and online meets for these enthusiasts to meet and discuss the technology. The purpose is to give the community a sense of purpose and thus create the Mouth-to-Mouth brand strategy. One Plus also partners with various other brands over time, to capture the influencing market such as Ola, Amazon, Drop box, Chroma, and others.

Introduction about

India Yamaha Motor pvt ltd.

Yamaha made its initial foray into India in 1985. Subsequently, it entered into a 50-50 joint venture with the escorts group in 1996. However in August 2001, Yamaha acquired its remaining stake as well, bringing the Indian operations under its complete control as a 100% subsidiary of Yamaha Moto co ltd, Japan.

Indian Yamaha motor operates from its state-of-the-art manufacturing units at Faridabad in Harayana and Surajpur in Uttarpradesh, and produces motorcycles both for domestic and export markets. With a strong work force of 2000 employees, Indian Yamaha Motor is highly customer-driven and has a country wide network of over 400 dealers

Core competencies

We put customers first in everything we do. We take decisions keeping the customer in mind.

1) Challenging spirit

We strive for excellence in everything we do and in the quality of goods and services we provide, we work hard to achieve what we commit and achieve result faster than our competitors and we never give up.

2) We work cohesively with our colleagues as a multicultural team built on trust, respect, understanding and mutual co-operation everyone's contribution is equally important for our success.

3) We are honest, Sincere, open minded and transparent in our dealings, we actively listen to others and participate in healthy and frank discussion to achieve the organizational goal.

Product profile

Everyone can hold the throttle wide open up the straight, it's how well everything works after you close the go-tube that will make the biggest difference to how competitive your lap is. With the R1's slipper clutch metering the amount of back torque, you get outstanding control and accuracy, and blisteringly fast corner entry. The slipper clutch enables changes in clutch plate pressure when torque force comes to bear on the crank from the rear wheel, and exemplifies what is most remarkable about the R1 engine—not only the amount of power, but the linearity and superb transitional characteristics of that power.

2) Stiff and flexible

As chassis loads continue to escalate it's only logical that the chassis itself should be a tuneable component. Our engineers have identified specific areas of the frame where stiffer is better, and others where flex provides the key to good handling. By tuning flex quotients of the main frame, rear arm and fork, Yamaha created an optimal rigidity balance for the new YZF-R1. As a result, chassis response to initial steering inputs is light and responsive while stability is high-speed turns in excellent, and overall handling qualities simply brilliant
